

Thermal cameras - where is my house losing heat?

Knowing where your house is losing heat is the first step to reducing your energy bill. Llangattock Green Valleys (LGV) can provide you with thermal images of your home to give you this information.

Come to learn more about the information thermal camera images can provide at an LGV event on

St. Edmunds Parish Hall, Church Lane, Crickhowell

Tom White from Llangattock Green Valleys will introduce the camera surveys that we run for local residents. He will show example images from last winter's camera surveys, and how they can help identify places where houses are losing heat.

Steve Ham, a local energy efficient builder, will be present to answer questions about making insulation improvements.

Kate Lewis from Severn Wye Energy Agency will be present in her role as Energy Advocate for South Powys to advise on the services available to Powys Residents looking to save on their domestic energy and bills, as well as signposting sources of funding for energy efficiency improvements.

The meeting is open to anyone interested, including clients from last year.
